

Intellectual Property Rights Policy

All development of systems, which includes software, hardware, processes, procedures, graphics, music, and ideas, which are produced during work for Sprouts, are the property of Sprouts. The ideas, inventions and concepts embodied in any system or product of work resulting from the employment with Sprouts together with any and all related copyright, patent, trade secret rights, and all other team member rights are the exclusive property of the company. A team member must assign such rights and assignments, including an assignment of moral rights to Sprouts and to provide all necessary information that is reasonably required to protect the rights of the company.
