

LEADING SELF: HOW TO CREATE INDIVIDUAL DEVELOPMENT PLANS

What is an Individual Development Plan (IDP)?

An IDP is a roadmap for professional development, designed to build skills and behaviors necessary for success in a current role or for advancement into next-level roles with greater responsibility. IDPs identify opportunities to develop skills, knowledge, and competency and are co-created by team members and their managers. Managers play a critical role in providing feedback as requested to help team members successfully execute their IDPs.

Benefits of IDPs:

- ✓ Demonstrates commitment to self-development, and by being in writing, accountability is increased
- ✓ Supports ongoing performance and development discussions
- ✓ Provides a roadmap for team members on how to develop
- ✓ Demonstrates leadership commitment to investing in team member growth, which positively impacts engagement and retention

Steps to create your IDP:

1. Identify your development opportunities based on your self-reflection and your manager's performance feedback.
2. Generate ideas for development activities that can support your growth.
3. Use the Sprouts Development Plan Discussion Template to outline up to 3 development goals and related activities.

TIP: Use the SMART Goal framework to create more effective development goals.

4. Document your final IDP items in MyHR to track progress and drive accountability for meeting development goals.
5. Actively work toward your IDP goals.
6. Take proactive steps to seek feedback and support when needed.
7. Edit the plan based on changes in your role or development needs.
8. Once development goals are met, reflect on your learning and how you can apply your new knowledge, skills, and/or competency in your current role or in the pursuit of new opportunities.

Use the SMART Goal framework:

- S Specific goals help team members focus on target development areas.
- M Measurable goals support tracking and achievement of results to plan.
- A Achievable (and challenging) goals ensure realistic expectations are set.
- R Relevant goals directly impact business, department, and personal growth.
- T Time-bound goals ensure accountability for meeting expectations.
